

My name is Phyllis D'Ettore, and I live in New Fairfield (right on the Connecticut/New York border). I think the idea of tolls at the border is terrible. We already live with trucks avoiding the weigh station on I-84 at exit 2, driving through residential streets, and the next thing will be drivers getting off of I-84 to drive through these same streets to avoid paying the toll.

Instead of always trying to increase revenue by punishing its citizens, why don't we just cut down on spending? It's time the state of Connecticut showed some fiscal responsibility. Therefore, please do not pass this bill; it's a terrible idea.
